

1. Isn't a calling something only pastors and missionaries get?

2. Can your calling change?

3. Does my calling have to be my job?

4. What if I see my calling as being the best wife (husband, dad, mom, employee, boss, friend) I can be?

5. What do you do when a husband and wife's callings seem to be contradictory or conflict with each other?

6. How can you determine that what you are hearing as it relates to your calling is actually God's voice?

7. What do you do if you've identified your passions and gifting and you've looked back over your story, prayed about it, sought wise counsel, and you still don't have a clear sense of what God is calling you to?
